Sustainable Agriculture Consulting: Cacao Farming in the Philippines

Practicum Student will work with owner/operator of Kasama, Vincent Garcia, to explore and potentially develop a strategy that will advance knowledge-share opportunities between farmers in the Philippines and Kasama Chocolate. This may include Philippine Agricultural Institutional outreach and general industry research. The student will be tasked with problem definition, including setting of scope and strategic planning with a goal to help advance Kasama's support for the development of sustainable agricultural practices in Philippine cacao production. Among the goals of this project is to advance a strategy that may assist Kasama in its work to strengthen market opportunities for sustainably grown Philippine cacao.

Interest and knowledge of Philippine farming and cultural context an asset but not required.
